Jan Treanor

June 25, 1957 - October 9, 2011

Early Sunday morning, our friend and coworker Jan Treanor died following a long and courageous battle with cancer.

To honor the loss of such a great woman, one needs to be articulate. Unfortunately just the right words are hard to come by for those who knew and loved Jan. Our hearts are broken as we start the day without her, knowing she will no longer be coming through our front door like a ray of sunlight. Among the many positive traits that Jan offered, one of the most memorable was her inner sparkle, a brilliant illumination that lit up the very path she walked. Jan glowed, even in her sickest times.

Jan was the person in the room who gave the attention and felt uncomfortable receiving it. She had a way of making everyone she knew feel like they knew her best. To simply say she made you feel special would be doing her memory a disservice. Her truest gift was more than her generous smile, more than the genuine interest and compassion she showed family, friends and acquaintances. Jan was the infinite caregiver and through her gifts of love, talent, humor and kindness, she made our lives richer for having known her.

Jan fought cancer for many years but didn't like to talk about her illness. In fact, many people who knew her didn't even know she was undergoing treatment. Jan didn't want to be defined by cancer and refused to let it take control of her life. Her courage and determination in the years she spent fighting for her life were only surpassed by an unrelenting positive outlook. Although a cure wasn't found in time to save her, perhaps our miracle came in the form of Jan herself. She lived so many years with this devastating disease and late into her battle, she defied the odds each and every day she got up and gave one hundred percent of herself to whoever needed her.

Jan leaves behind a devoted husband, Guy, and two wonderful children, Nathan (Skater) and Afton, all of whom she was very proud. Our hearts and prayers go out to them as they mourn the loss of their wife, their mother, their world.

In life, Jan was not one of those people you met once and forgot. So while she is no longer here with us on earth, we ask that her radiant persona, kind nature and loving ways be not forgotten. May her spirit and sparkle live on.
