Listen to Dr. Beth on The Waiting Room this Sunday!

With one show "under her belt" Dr. Beth Hagberg is a bona fide radio personality! Listen to her again this Sunday, September 6th from 10 to 11am, on FM 107.1's new show The Waiting Room. This week, Dr. Beth and co-host Colleen Lindstrom will discuss injectables.

What is the difference between Botox and a filler? How does Botox compare to the new wrinkle corrector, Dysport? Are they painful? Will I look like I have a "frozen face?" Dr. Beth will sort through the details and even tackle injectable myths. Tune in this Sunday. For more information, visit The Waiting Room show page.

Skin Rejuvenation Clinic takes fractional laser resurfacing to the next level by offering the ProFractional-XC™ laser service.

Two years ago, we announced Skin Rejuvenation Clinic was the first cosmetic center/medi-spa in Minnesota to incorporate the breakthrough ProFractional laser into its cosmetic practice. Now we are proud to share with our patients that we are offering the ProFractional-XC™ manufactured by Sciton, Inc.

The ProFractional-XC offers the same high-quality skin resurfacing as the former ProFractional service. "Both the previous and the upgraded fractional laser treatments provide the same level of improvements for acne scarring, deep wrinkles, fine lines, post-traumatic and surgical scars, actinic keratosis and pigmentation," Dr. Beth said. "The difference lies in the delivery of the wavelength energy, which is much faster with the ProFractional-XC."

Facial laser resurfacing, such as ProFractional therapies, have become a popular option for patients seeking to enhance the appearance of their skin. Unlike traditional laser peels, where results are linked to long periods of downtime the new generation fractional devices like the ProFractional-XC boast not only a shorter service time, but patients can expect to resume normal activities in just 2 to 4 days.

The ProFractional laser offers dramatic results and quick healing for patients interested in improving wrinkles, acne scars and skin texture with little to no downtime. Dr. Mark explained that the laser is indeed worthy of the praise it's receiving in the cosmetic industry: "The ProFractional laser is similar to previous fractional devices, but what sets this new laser apart is the quick healing time and comfort level during treatment," he says. "Our patients are excited about the ProFractional laser because they can see results more rapidly with a shorter recovery time than Fraxel® or many other laser treatments."

The new laser treatment is minimally ablative or invasive. The procedure creates tiny channels reaching depths appropriate for correcting acne scars, wrinkles and texture issues. This allows for a very comfortable treatment. So comfortable in fact, many ProFractional laser treatments do not require topical anesthetic.
